

2021 University of Johannesburg Confucius Institute Tourism Mandarin and Chinese Culture Training

The University of Johannesburg- Nanjing Tech Confucius Institute (UJCI) was established in 2015, and won the global advanced Confucius Institute. UJCI has made remarkable achievements in Mandarin teaching, cultural activities and academic research. The Centre for Africa-China Studies (CACS) is a research-focused institute, which falls under UJCI. The UJCI is committed to promoting all-round cooperation in education, science and technology, culture, economy and trade, tourism and Chinese medicine between China and Africa.

In addition to offering a Tourism Mandarin Credit course at the University of Johannesburg, UJCI has also provided training in Tourism Mandarin and Chinese Culture for tourism companies such as Sun City, and for tourist guides selected by the Department of Tourism South Africa.

UJCI has good cooperative relations with the Tourism Business Council of South Africa (TBCSA) as well as the UJ School of Tourism and Hospitality (STH), which is one of the best schools in Africa. On August 4, 2021, UJCI hosted an inaugural Virtual International Forum themed “South Africa- China Tourism Cooperation: Opening New Horizons” in partnership with STH. The forum was supported by the TBCSA, the Embassy of the People's Republic of China in South Africa, the Ministry of Culture and Tourism China as well as leading scholars from South Africa and China.

South Africa-China Tourism Cooperation: Opening New Horizons

UJCI has introduced online non-credit training courses to support South Africa's tourism industry, particularly in attracting the Chinese market. The UJCI Tourism Mandarin and Chinese Culture training courses have been scheduled to take place from 13 November to 11 December (every Tuesday 18:00-19:30 p.m. and Saturday 10:00 to 11:30 a.m. SAST). In total, nine lessons will be provided at no charge to students who have been accepted into the programme. We welcome all friends with no Mandarin proficiency as well as those interested in tourism mandarin to enrol for this short learning programme. A commemorative certificate will be awarded to learners upon completion of the course.

Please register as soon as possible. Kindly note that the registration system will be closed on November 10. A maximum of 200 learners will be accepted into the programme. Upon acceptance of the maximum number of learners, the registration system will immediately be closed. When you complete the online application, it means that you have registered successfully. Please make sure your information is accurate, or your registration might be declined. Your personal information will not be distributed or shared with third parties but will be used internally and for certification purposes only. UJCI will add learners to a WhatsApp course group in advance (from 05 November 2021). Additional guidance and detailed information regarding the Zoom link and learning materials will be shared with the learners via the WhatsApp group.
